"It is always more enjoyable to carve something you love, and I love flowers. My ongoing goal is to bring as much realism as I can to the flowers I carve. My passion for carving flowers has become a family act. My husband, Ronnie, and I search out flowers to carve. Ronnie keeps his camera handy whenever we visit nurseries, gardens and friends. Sometimes we have visited places so often to check out or photograph a flower that the owner just gives us the plant. This book is the result of many hours of effort in carving, painting and finishing to get the realism just right.

What I would like for you to learn from this book is not only how to carve flowers, but to actually see flowers and their leaves in a different way; the beauty of a leaf, the curves on a flower, the soft flow of each petal. We can see this best of all by looking at the natural beauty the Lord has already provided all around us."
